Executive Office of the President
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear George:

It has been a very great honor and a real pleasure to consult for your office during the past year. The interest and energy of the entire scientific community have found a natural focus in your office; and I am glad to have had a chance to play my small role in it. Of course, if I can be of service to the next Administration, I should be glad to serve my country in this way.

Sincerely yours,

Albert D. Wheelon
